| Beaujolais is a French Appellation d'Origine Controlee (AOC) wine generally made of the Gamay grape which has a thin skin & is low in tannins. As with most AOC wines, they are not labelled varietally.                                                                                                      |                     |
| Beaujolais tends to be a light-bodied red wine with relatively high acidity. The region is known for its long tradition of using carbonic maceration in their wine making.                                                                                                                                    |                     |
| There are three classifications of Beaujolais wine:                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                     |

| There are 10 Crus, all in the north & producing only red wines. Usually, the labels will simply state the name of the Cru. Each Cru has its own distinct characters – climate, soils, altitude & a host of other factors – that are not duplicated elsewhere. The wines are more complex & known to age well. |                     |
